UNICEF and partners reached 635,897 (204,109 children) conflict-affected people in long-term camps, temporary sites, forests, host communities and peri-urban settlements, with life-saving WASH supplies. Clean drinking water was provided to 439,440 people through water boating, treatment, distribution and water-kiosks. Gender-segregated sanitation services, including emergency latrines and bathing shelters, reached 182,957 people. UNICEF responded to the needs of this population through CSOs partners, independent service providers, volunteers' networks, UN agency collaboration, and direct service delivery by UNICEF staff. UNICEF also led cluster coordination at the national and sub-nation levels, identifying needs and gaps and coordinating responses to avoid duplication.
